

How Much Home Can You Afford? ▶▶▶

When you're searching for a new home, it's a good idea to calculate how much money you might be qualified to borrow and your monthly mortgage payment. Complete the following worksheet to figure a quick estimate of how much you may be able to afford. (These calculations are based on salaried borrowers; self-employed borrowers may have other factors to consider.)

Gross monthly income

Borrower $ _____
Co-borrower $ _____
TOTAL gross monthly income $ _____

Minimum monthly debt

Credit cards $ _____
Car loans or leases $ _____
Personal installment loans $ _____
Payroll/401(k) loan payments $ _____
School loan(s) $ _____
Other (child support, alimony, etc.) $ _____
Total minimum monthly debt $ _____

Calculate monthly house payment*:

1. Total gross monthly income x 0.43* $ _____
2. Total minimum monthly debt $ _____
3. Subtract line 2 from line 1 $ _____

The amount in #3 is the maximum monthly house payment, including taxes and insurance, for which you may be qualified. Please see me for more information.

* This 0.43 Qualifying Ratio can be higher with compensating factors, such as high credit scores or good cash reserves.

Your FICO Credit Score

This score is a key factor in determining the terms you'll receive when financing a home. Your score, which ranges from 300 to 850, is based on these factors:

- 35% — payment history: Your consistency in making on-time payments.
- 30% — total amount owed: Includes the ratio of what you owe to your available credit amount.
- 15% — length of credit history: How long you've been using credit.
- 10% — new credit account and inquiries: Accounts you've recently opened and creditor inquiries.
- 10% — types of credit in use: Includes credit cards, installment loans, mortgages, etc.
